SPANISH PRETENDER ANNOUNCES HE WILL LEAD INVADING HOST.

ARMED FORCE IN WAITING

Today Was Date Set For Invasion of the Kingdom by Army of Exiles—Labor Troubles Complicate Matters.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madrid, July 29.—Reports of a threatened rupture between the Spanish government and the Vatican have been followed by an occasional clash between catholic and non-catholic elements throughout the country.

At San Sebastian Don Juan, the Pretender, has issued a manifesto in which he says he will lead the Carlists in battle which he intimates may be coming soon.

The general situation is complicated by unrest among the miners in the Catalonian provinces. In some quarters it is believed the Holy See counts upon the fall of the government. Premier Canalejas, however, said he had assurance of the support of the clergy in the event of a change of government.

The serious outbreak backed by 10,000 desperate Spanish exiles who demand readmission to the country complicates the situation. The situation is extremely grave, adding a third problem.

At Cerbera, on the Franco-Spanish frontier, several thousand well-armed, desperate Spanish exiles are gathered on the French side, ready to invade their country today. In Barcelona, the industrial center of Spain, a general strike and the mammoth anti-government demonstration has been planned for the same date. Senior Claramunt, leader of the re-

ENGLISH CATHOLICS' NATIONAL CONGRESS

Was Opened at Leeds Today With Pontifical High Mass—Memorable Event in History of Church.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Leeds, Eng., July 29.—The first national congress of the Catholic church in England was opened here today with a pontifical high mass, the Archbishop of Westminster being the celebrant and many bishops and priests assisting. The event was one of the most memorable in the history of the church, as with few exceptions all the dignitaries and diocesan heads of the church in England participated. One of the principal objects of the congress, which will continue its sessions until August 2, is to bring into closer relationship the various Catholic societies and associations.

BANKS OF EAST TO CO-OPERATE

Representatives of Institutions of New York Boroughs and Long Island Will Form Association.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York, July 29.—The recent plan of Secretary of the Treasury McVey that bankers should form associations to prepare for taking out emergency currency in the event of a situation demanding such action bore its first fruits today, when representatives of the national banks of the New York Boroughs and of Long Island met in this city to perfect an organization such as is proposed by the Secretary of the Treasury and provided for in the Aldrich-Vreeland emergency currency act.

The new organization will be known as the National Currency Association. Its bylaws, as drawn up by the committee entrusted with that task, contain two important provisions that are expected to remove the objections to organizing which have existed heretofore.

One of these provisions permits the withdrawal of a bank from membership in the association, with the permission of the executive committee and the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, provided the bank has no unredemmed emergency currency outstanding. The other provision, which is local for its immediate purpose but general in its scope, permits the union of banks of Long Island to become members of the association.

This action is intended to establish a line of policy whereby in the formation of associations in other clearing house districts, small banks will be taken care of. The Treasury department recognizes that to be workable a law must be applied impartially, hence it has insisted, in the case of the New York banks, that the small banks of Long Island should have equal rights of membership with the great banks of New York city.

With this principle carried into effect throughout the country, small depositors and customers will have equal protection with those of the great banking institutions. It is understood that the organization of the currency associations will be welcomed also for the possible aid these associations may offer the problem of reforming the currency system.

CARSMEN'S REGATTA DATES ARE CHANGED

Events Originally Scheduled to Open on Potomac River Today Will Take Place August 12 and 13.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Washington, D. C., July 29.—The annual regatta of the National Association of Amateur Carsmen, which was originally scheduled to open on the Potomac river course here today, has been postponed until August 12 and 13 to suit the convenience of the club. The local committee in charge is rapidly concluding all arrangements for the regatta, which promises to be the most successful event in the history of the association.

The Eastern rowing clubs, including those of Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston, will send large delegations. The middle West will be represented by carsmen from St. Louis, Minneapolis, Duluth, Quincy and other points, while it is thought probable that points still farther distant, such as Galveston, San Francisco and Portland will be represented. FAIRCHILD WAS WELL RECEIVED

COURT HOUSE PARK.

ADDRESSED A THOUSAND

People Last Evening—Unequivocally
Stated His Position As A Conservative Candidate.

Out under the trees on a perfect summer night, with the fountain splashing, the gasoline torches flaming, and the band conjuring with drum-waltzes and the like so as not to disturb the all-prevailing serenity, a throng of Janesville people last evening received their first formal and direct introduction to the fall campaign. A temporary platform had been erected in the court house park and beside State Senator E. T. Fairchild of Milwaukee, candidate for the republican nomination for governor, sat H. J. Castle of Madison, for many years a member of the state board of control and a veteran lecturer on republican doctrine, Rev. Martin Luther of Grand Rapids, Wis., Rev. J. W. Laughlin, Postmaster Charles L. Valentine, George Davey, and Hon. Pliny Norcross. The band, though slightly handicapped by the absence of several members who were at the K. of C. picnic at Yost's park, gave a very creditable concert as a preliminary to the addresses.

Capt. Norcross Spoke.
Hon. Pliny Norcross after paying a tribute to the musicians and stating that he much preferred their music to the sound of his own voice, reminded his hearers that state officers were to be elected this year. Any man could run for office. Of course it required some nerve and a candidate should also have good friends and money. (Laughter.)

Five weeks from next Tuesday the romance and poetry incident to the race would terminate in a primary election. The names of five men had been mentioned in connection with this race. Hon. James O. Davidson, after serving nearly six years, had declined to make another run. He had given to the state efficient and valiant service. Those left in the race were Fairchild and McGovern of Milwaukee, Lewis of Racine, and Lieutenant Governor, Strango of Oshkosh. They were all good fellows, but for himself, not expecting his hearers to be bound by his choice, of course, the speaker preferred the first-named.

"Senator Fairchild is a young man and the young man who works should have the preference. We old fellows look backward, we are concerned with the things that we have done and are sorry we didn't do more."

Whether the candidate's ancestors came over on the Mayflower, or whether his grand-parents wielded the shillelagh or whether he once belonged to King William in the German army, or whether he came from Norway or Sweden were considerations unknown to the speaker. They were of no consequence in this country. He reached Milwaukee 16 years ago. The people elected him assistant district attorney, a position of no small responsibility in a city of from 250,000 to 400,000 souls, and subsequently he had represented the city four years in the state senate with a fine record to his credit.

There was one qualification the speaker placed above all others. Of the representatives from all the 11 congressional districts of Wisconsin, 10 were republicans and 1 a democrat. This state had given W. H. Taft almost 100,000 plurality for president and yet of those 10 republican congressmen only two had made any pretense of supporting the President. "I honestly believe in the Republican party and its platform and I believe in the man who stands on that platform—William H. Taft! (Applause) And the best reason why I want to see Senator Fairchild in the governor's chair is that he stands by the principles of the party and President Taft. I now have the pleasure of introducing the man who, I believe, will be elected governor of Wisconsin and if he is, I am sure that he will be one of the best state executives we have ever had."

Fairchild's Position.
Senator Fairchild, in opening, expressed his appreciation of the many words of praise from the distinguished chairman. He would not claim to be deserving of them all. He would not boast of his own merits but would be content to claim a great deal for his good intentions. The temperature was the only hot thing about the primary campaign thus far; to this temperature was to be attributed in large measure the passive interest of the people, so he had been told. Early in the morning when everything was fresh and cool, he felt like electing himself governor but when the hot noonday sun was beating down upon him, the mood changed and he was willing to let the people make their choice.

"I wish to have it understood that I enter this contest without malice towards any living man and with a sincere respect for those others who also aspire to the office. If I am nominated I expect to go before the people on a platform which indorses the national administration of president Taft and the state administration of Gov. Davidson."

"There are many issues between the two old parties which do not exist as between the candidates seeking a nomination at the hands of one of these parties. Capt. Lewis in his announcement declares himself in favor of county option. I do not believe county option should be a political issue. But inasmuch as it had been brought into the campaign, I saw fit in my announcements to call attention to the fact that in the state legislature I had voted against it. I do not mean it to be understood that I am so rock-ribbed and hide bound in this stand that I cannot compromise when the public good demands a compromise. But it has seemed to me that Janesville and Beloit should be permitted to regulate their own affairs; that this was a matter which touched the personal liberty of each individual; that it might safely be left to his determination; that it was not fairly a political issue.

"It is rumored that I have made some pledge to somebody that if a county option bill is passed and I am Governor I'll veto it. If I am elected I promise that I will be responsible to no one except the God I trust and fear."

The speaker devoted considerable attention to the contention of another candidate (Mr. McGovern) that the tariff, home rule, etc., were not issues but that the one and only issue was Special Interests Versus the Rights of the People. After placing himself on record as favoring the establishment of a form of industrial insurance which would carry some form of compensation into the homes of injured working men and declaring that his influence, if elected, would be exerted to that end, Mr. Fairchild argued that the rights of the people must be established as fast as the needs arose; that the combat with special interests had been waged ever since the world began; that antagonism to special interests had been written in every political platform; that platforms and candidates must give particulars and concrete instances if anything was to be accomplished. He asked very pertinently where the "special interests" were when President Taft was trying to get congress to appropriate $250,000 to enable a commission to draw a tariff law that would be scientific in its application and not the creature of political exigency.

In conclusion Mr. Fairchild paid a tribute to Janesville citizenship and the distinguished Senator from this district whom he had known many years. "I have been glad of the opportunity to meet you and I shall continue to cherish pleasant memories of you even if the votes in September show that you haven't pleasant memories of me."

Address by D. J. Castle.
D. J. Castle spoke from the standpoint of one who had been very close to Governor Davidson and who had hoped that he might be the standard-bearer in this campaign. Gov. Davidson, he said, was one of the first to encourage Mr. Fairchild to enter the field. The speaker dwelt upon some of the graver aspects of the campaign and took occasion to deplore the lavish expenditure of money by one of the candidates (Col. Lewis). By means of a parable of the man who wanted a position on the Methodist board and sought to borrow Presbyterians to elect him to that office, he assailed the expedient of trying to draw the democrats into a republican contest. Touching upon the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, he begged his hearers to remember that if prices were high today they were low in '93, '94, '95, and '96 and nothing was to be done as yet.

Reception at Hotel.
Following the open-air meeting an informal reception was held in the lobby of the Hotel Myers and a large number of citizens, including a delegation of labor leaders, took advantage of the opportunity to meet Mr. Fairchild. The candidate and his associates departed this morning for Elkhorn and Whitewater where he is scheduled to speak during the day.

Paris wrought up over reported disappearance of "Mona Lisa" the most famous portrait in the world; the famous painter and sculptor Leonardo da Vinci and the Louvre from which painting is said to have been stolen.

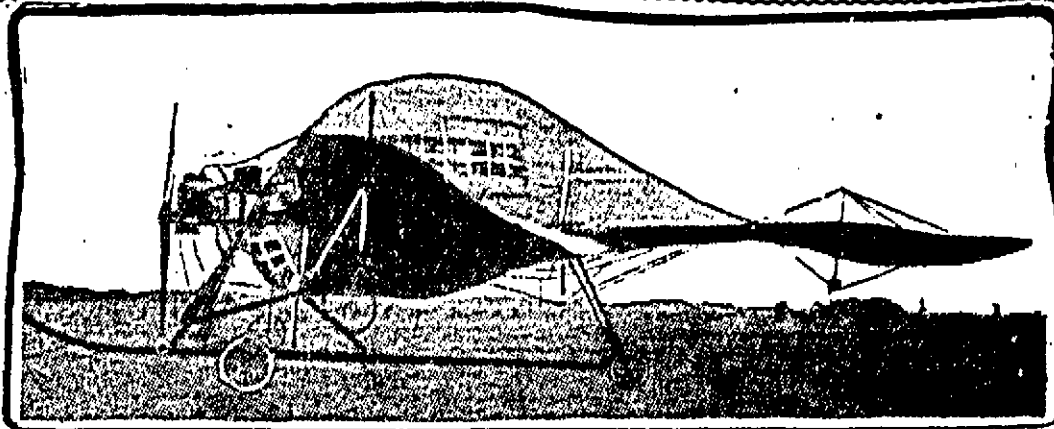

Paris—Never have art circles been so wrought up as by the reported disappearance of "Mona Lisa," the famous painting of Leonardo da Vinci, from the Louvre. Hundreds availed themselves of the first opportunity to visit the Louvre and see for themselves. The substitute, if it is really such, is so perfect that opinion is still divided, many claiming it is the original. A careful investigation has been started and the French government will spend millions of dollars to trace the original if it is found to have been stolen.

Da Vinci's portrait of "Mona Lisa," also called "La Gioconda" or "Giocondo," in European art circles is considered to rank second in value only to the statue "Madonna" by Raphael. Both are priceless.

It is a matter of guess, although no official verification of the rumor ever has been given, that the British government offered $500,000 for "Mona Lisa" and that the offer was refused.

LEONARDO DA VINCI.

MOST REMARKABLE MONOPLANE YET INVENTED—THE "FLYING FISH" FLYING MACHINE.

Paris, France—The remarkable monoplane, the "Flying Fish," invented by H. Henri Miquet and now on exhibition at Charles aerodrome is attracting unusual attention. It closely resembles a monster of the deep in appearance and provides for carrying passengers inside a small compartment where they are protected from the elements. No flights have as yet been attempted in the freak airship, but it is thought no difficulty will be found in navigating the air as its inventor has had many successes in aviation. It is a remarkable invention, especially as a model for future passenger carrying airships.

JANESVILLE BLANKS MILTON "CRESCENTS"

Commercial League Stars Pound Out Easy Victory Yesterday Afternoon, 12 to 0.

One home run, two two-baggers, and so many hits that it would be a shame to list them, spells the tale of Janesville's victory over the Milton Junction "Crescents" yesterday afternoon at Conard's park. In fact, no crescent of a new moon was slimmer than the "Crescents" chance for victory over the pick of the Commercial League. The score was 12 to 0. One double play by the leaguers and six strike outs by Butters were the only features of an otherwise dull game.

The lineup:
Janesville: Mills, lf; Porter, 2b; Bell, ss; Ritter, cf; Deans, 3b; Abraham, rf; Smith, lb; Hutchinson, c; Butters, p.
"Crescents": Whitford, 1b; McGowan, 3b; Miller, c; Robinson, 2b; Davis, ss; P. Crandall, cf; Gilbert, rf; Ingles, lf; Crandall, p.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT K. OF C. PICNIC

Outing at Van's Park Was Thoroughly Enjoyed—Janesville Won the Baseball Game

Members of the Janesville, Beloit, and Monroe Councils of the Knights of Columbus, their families, and their friends enjoyed a delightful outing at Van's park yesterday, and the entertainment reflected great credit on Joseph Scheller of this city, master of ceremonies. W. H. Dougherty, Edward Netzhger of Beloit, and the others in charge of the arrangements. Throughout the day the Imperial band discoursed pleasing numbers at frequent intervals and the program included vocal selections, fancy dances, gymnastic feats, novelty races, a tug of war between Janesville and Beloit in which the Lion City lodge carried off the palm of victory, a baseball game between the Janesville and Monroe teams, and a dance in the evening for which the Knott & Hutch orchestra played.

The ball game was closely contested and was won by Janesville by the score of 8 to 5. Davine and Sullivan were the battery for the locals and Monroe had drafted a pitcher and catcher from Shullsburg for the occasion. McDevore of Beloit won the free-for-all race.

THREE WERE SENTENCED FOR DRUNKENNESS THIS MORNING

Dan Wilkins Reaches End of His Rode After Prolonged Struggle—Ed. Walsh "Charged."

Something less than one-fifth of the time required to save the money was needed by Dan Wilkins to get rid of the $125 which he had carefully hoarded. Even though his celebration was interrupted by several long sojourns in jail, he did not possess a cent when brought up in court this morning charged with drunkenness. He pleaded guilty but could not pay a fine of $5 and costs, so will spend fifteen days in jail. Three others, brought up on the same charge also pleaded guilty. William Murphy paid a fine amounting to $2. John Murphy went to jail for five days and a fifteen day sentence was held over Edward Walsh as an added inducement to leave this city.

ENTERS COUNTY HOUSE TO SECURE TREATMENT

James Lowry, Suffering From A Badly Infected Foot, Will Be Cared For By County.

Without funds and unable to secure treatment, James ("Curly") Lowry, who is suffering from a badly infected foot, applied for and received permission yesterday afternoon to enter the county house where he will be cared for until recovered. Recently the great toe of his left foot was badly smashed by a heavy keg and Lowry neglected to have the member dressed. As a result, the entire foot is affected and while his foot may be saved, it is possible that amputation of the toe will be necessary.

BIERKLUND WAS RELEASED FROM JAIL THIS MORNING

Man Who Was Dragged From River Yesterday Placed in Charge of Relatives.

Edward Bierklund, who was dragged from the river yesterday while mentally irresponsible, was today released from jail and taken in charge by relatives. An excusable mistake was made yesterday in the name as a result of Bierklund's inability to give a clear account of himself. The name was incorrectly given as Bierkness which placed others of that name residing in the city in a false position.

Have Queer Belief.

An amusing superstition of old Montaukshire, England, is that a snake has four legs, all of which will duly come out if after thoroughly killing him you hold his body over a hot flame.

Frank advertising may attract attention for a few days, but unless it possesses oddity or outlandish improbability it will not make a lasting impression upon the public mind. A laugh today may develop into a frown of disgust tomorrow. Money spent on frank advertising seldom brings satisfactory returns.

ONLY WOMAN EVER COMMISSIONED IN UNITED STATES AND JAPANESE ARMIES—DR. ANITA NEWCOMB MCGEE, SURGEON IN THE ARMY AND HEAD OF RED CROSS NURSES, WITH RANK OF LIEUTENANT.

Washington.—Now that Uncle Sam has a doctor at the head of his army, the fact is especially interesting that the only woman who ever held a regular commission in the United States army is also a doctor. This woman is Dr. Anita McGee.

She is the daughter of Prof. Shanon Newcomb the late scientist of Indiana the local fame. Under the direction of her father, Dr. McGee studied medicine and when the Spanish war broke out she was placed in charge of the nurses. Her success was phenomenal and during the Russo-Japanese war she was called to Japan to supervise the field nurse work there.

She was commissioned a regular officer in both armies and now holds the rank of first lieutenant in the United States medical corps.

Some funny things happen in the schoolroom. A Brooklyn teacher called upon a small boy to define "multitude." "A multitude," said the boy, "is what we get when we multiply."

Woman as an Originator.
There are few disputes in life that do not originate with a woman.—Juvenal.

Your competitor cannot harm you unless you let him. As much energy as you spend in watching his business—just so much the loss will you have for pushing your own. Your hardest competitor is, in a sense of the word, your best friend. He is helping to draw the public's attention to the sort of goods you are trying to sell. If you play your own game in your own way, you will have about as many a little bunch of work as you can manage.

Rewards of Great Living.
The rewards of great living are not external things, withheld until the crowning hour of success arrives; they come by the way—in the consciousness of growing power and worth, of duties nobly met and work thoroughly done. Joy and peace are by the way.—Hamilton W. Mabie.

SENATOR FAIRCHILD.

Janesville was visited yesterday by State Senator E. T. Fairchild of Milwaukee, one of the candidates for the republican nomination for governor. Last evening in the Court House park he delivered the first political address of the present campaign to an interested audience. Mr. Fairchild gave a clear-cut argument and his address was very scholarly and free from the usual clap-trap arguments of the average campaign speaker. Fairchild is a warm supporter of President Taft and believes in the policies of the republican administration. His record as a state senator is clean and above reproach and he seeks the nomination on a platform that will stand all the inspection that can be given it. On his trip through the southwestern portion of the state he has everywhere been received with attention and has made friends wherever he has gone. It is to be hoped that the voters of the state will not be carried away by the rattle of the money-box or the plea of the professional politician who seeks office for what it will bring him.

BRYAN AND NEBRASKA.

Whether William Jennings Bryan has really been defeated in Nebraska is a question which time only can settle. To all appearances, his political opponents triumphed over him in the democratic state convention yesterday, but the circumstances attending this matter render appearances less worthy of trust even than usual. Whatever critics may say of him in other respects, they cannot justly withhold from Mr. Bryan at this time the admiration and esteem which belong to a man in public life who makes expediency and personal advantage secondary to ultimate party welfare and popular advancement.

Mr. Bryan's standing in his state and before the country cannot be fixed by the result of a wave of emotional insurgency in the ranks of his followers, but, rather, must be measured by the calm and unprejudiced judgment of thinking people. The merits of his contention and not the bitterness of factional feeling will guide the state of Nebraska and the nation at large toward a final decision. From all that we know, and from all that we can know at present, he is striving honestly to eliminate certain influences which have for years dominated the democratic party both to its moral and material injury. These influences are powerful, aggressive, venefol, and he must have known when he undertook to wage war upon them that they would be unscrupulous and unsparing in their methods of retaliation. But the main questions involved in the contest are whether he is right, whether he is sincere, whether he is possessed of the courage to carry on the battle, even though his prosecution may seem to threaten his political ruin.

OUR STREETS.

After several years of comparative inactivity the council has ordered many new streets built during the present summer. The value and importance of good streets can not be overestimated. They are an advertisement that can not be duplicated in any other form of publicity. To strangers visiting the city, good, well-kept streets denote prosperity of the community, progressiveness. If you please, and they leave a lasting impression upon their minds. Keep the good work up and let every street in the city be put in first-class condition and kept so.

Grass fires are in order. The danger from these fires can not be overestimated. Care should be taken to prevent them and prompt attention paid to them if they once start. Chief Klein is authority for the statement that he would rather make the run to a dozen grass fires than to one real, genuine blaze. The extreme dryness of the grass and buildings makes them a dangerous proposition to trifling with.

The way with which the first band concert in the Court House park was enjoyed by the hundreds of ladies and children last night as a prelude to the address of the evening, shows that band concerts are popular and it is to be regretted they can not be repeated at least once a week.

That order to clean up the alleys and yards by the city health officer should be rigidly enforced. Nothing breeds disease quicker than unhealthy sanitary conditions. The cost of such work is really only the premium on an insurance policy for good health.

Evidently the opening guns of the campaign which were fired by Judge Baneroff, candidate for attorney general, in Milwaukee, set fire to a lot of fuel in the opposition camp from the amount of spluttering some of the opposition press have made over it.

The candidacy of Hudnall for lieutenant governor progresses well and the voters can make no mistake by voting for him for the second place on the republican ticket.

Since both wings of the republican party of Ohio were eager to endorse President Taft and his administration, the party leaders see no reason why they should not soar on to more and happier goals of success.

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

By WALT MASON.
(Copyright, 1909, by George Mathew Adams.)

Sing me something low and tender,
Sing it softly, Susan Jane, for I could not bear the splendor of a loud heroic strain.

THE EVENING SONG

I've just impressed, when the glowing stars are watching from the skies they long have lit, and I sit here slowly searching where the doggone chiggers bit, let your song be sweet and swaying, that will give my soul repose, while I scratch, with one hand spraying chigger lotion 'neath my clothes. Sometimes when the day is dying, and the mystic breezes blow, and my world-worn heart is sighing for the rest it may not know, of the stars I ask this question: "Why were chiggers ever born? They are worse than indignation, fiercer than an aching corn. They are worse than jumping meadows, than a blunder on the tongue; in the name of funds and tenures, why were chiggers ever sprung?" Sing a song of vanished days and of happy days at home, while I scratch the itching places with a good stiff curry-comb.

Speak to Fido About This.
Some one writes, "Don't let your dog go without water." And if he is one of those large, loose, scolding dogs, don't let him tip over some one's garbage can and then come smugly home to wipe his feet on the whiskers of some friend who happens to be calling on you.

Egg Shell Gas Mantles.
Egg shells as gas mantles is an idea from Germany. The contents are drawn off, blown out, the ends are neatly cut off, and the body of the shell is fixed in position like the regular article. The light thus obtained is very good, while the new form of mantle is durable.

Nothing New in It.
Thus spoke the dude into the maldy: "I trust you'll excuse my pigmy; my talk will bore you, I'm afraid, for I feel like a fool tonight." Thus spoke the maid into the dude: "That's all right, but pray—pardon me if I'm seemingly rude—don't you always feel that way?"—Chicago News.

Lightning Strikes a Pen.
A clerk in a Liverpool (Eng.) office was sitting at his desk during a recent thunderstorm, when what he describes as a ball of flame struck the pen in his hand, producing a startling report. Curiously enough the pen was not damaged, nor did the clerk himself suffer any injury.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE MAN BEHIND THE LAW.

Governor Deneen of Illinois, together with a party of friends, was arrested not long ago for a law violation.

It is a fine story. The party, occupying an automobile, was returning from a club reception near Chicago and was stopped by a policeman named Hill.

"You haven't the required number of lights on your car, and, besides, you have exceeded the speed limit," said the policeman.

"See here," interrupted the chauffeur, "ent this out. Those are big people. When you know who they are you will not want to be so gay."

"I don't care who they are; they can't violate the law," answered the policeman.

"I am Governor Deneen," said the chief executive, standing up in the car. "What offense are you guilty of?"

The policeman almost fell off his motorcycle when he saw the governor's familiar face, but he was game.

"Can't help it, governor," he said. "The law must be enforced."

"I agree with you," replied the governor. "Are you going to be hauled in?"

"Guess I'd better send you down to the station and see what the sergeant says," said Hill.

The automobile was driven to the station, where the parties were "booked" for failing to comply with the law requiring lights on the cars at night.

Said I not it is a fine story?

It reads like those army incidents in which the general's party approaches the picket line and is refused admission by the stern sentry, who has his orders to admit no one without the proper password.

Policeman Hill enforced the law without distinction of persons.

The governor was quick to see the policeman's point, and he set a good example by prompt obedience to the law.

Proper law enforcement must include all infractions of the law, whether by high or low.

It is a little but true saying that what we need is not so much the passage of new laws as the strict and equitable enforcement of the old laws.

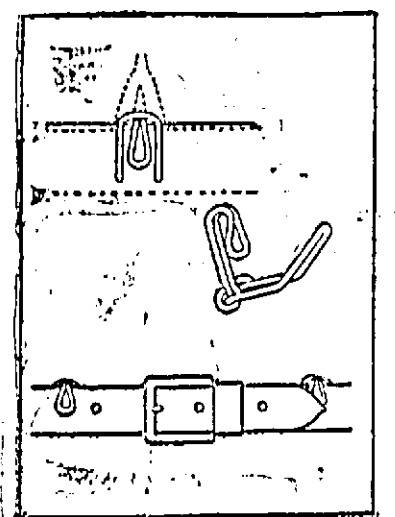

As it is "the man behind the gun" who wins the victories of war, so the man behind the law wins the victories of peace.

And as the man behind the law must enforce the law, so the men in front of the law must obey the law.

GARMENT SUPPORT

Hooks Take Place of Buttons and Engage Either Belt or Suspender.

A Pennsylvania man has devised an ingenious kind of garment support to take the place of buttons. It consists of a two-piece hook that can be used equally well with belt or suspenders. One part of the device resembles the hook portion of a hook-and-eye on a much larger scale. The other part is merely a wire loop, with the two ends sharpened and curved slightly. The pointed hooks are thrust through the trousers near the top and passed through the eyes of the other member. The hook and loop are then pressed together and lock, thereby giving a firmly fastened support that will not come off except at the will of the wearer and that gives a straight upward pull instead of pulling from one side, as when the loop of a suspended dress on a button. The inventor claims that trousers will not better as a result of this straight pull, and it is a perfectly logical claim. The hook that projects slightly is passed through a suspender loop or over the top of a belt and eliminates the necessity of belt straps.

The Victim.

Strange Guest—"I don't know half the people in the room. Just look at that woman over there—the cross-eyed, red-headed one. And some one told me she was married. Don't you think the fellow was a fool?" Other guest (smiling)—"I know he was. I'm here."—Baltimore American.

There is Light.

In everything that happens there is light; and the greatness of the greatest of men has but consisted in that they had trained their eyes to be open to every ray of this light.—Maurice Maeterlinck.

RELATIVE ADVERTISING VALUE

Newspaper Only Means That Gives the Chance for Thoughtful Presentation of Business News.

The number of merchants who will sit down and seriously argue that it does not pay to advertise, is not half so great today as it was five years ago. The fortunes that have been accumulated by successful advertising, the direct response of the buying public to judicious publicity, are such as to parent facts as to have convinced a large share of the former doubters.

But occasionally there is a merchant who gets it into his head that there is some method of getting at the public through some means other than newspaper space. There is no serious objection to every such method. Billboard advertising runs up against the growing hostility to the darkening of nature and our public streets. Many people have resolved not to patronize business houses guilty of this disfiguring form of advertising. Furthermore, there is no chance to quote prices and describe goods in this method of advertising in any rational way. There is no logic in the bill board. The latter point applies to program advertising. It is not advertising, merely a mental jolt. It does absolutely nothing to convince the reader that you have bargains. Handbill advertising, without newspaper space to back it up, looks undeniably cheap.

Street car advertising is not read by one-tenth of the population of any city in which it is used. Figure it out for yourself. One-half of the people of Charleston do not ride in the cars more than once a week. The other one-half haven't time to read the advertising that appears directly over their heads. The newspaper goes into 50 per cent of the homes and business houses and offices in Charleston. People who do not subscribe for the paper and receive it regularly usually send out and borrow it in order to read the advertisements as well as the news items appearing therein. It is the newspaper only that gives the chance for thoughtful presentation of business news.

Where Many Fall.

There are many people in business today who can select goods needed by the people and buy them at the right price. They can also sell them when they get a customer before the counter. But they fail to do a paying business because they do not make themselves or their store well known in the community. They may be honest and deal fair, but the people do not know it. They fail because they are too timid to "blow their own horns." No business was ever built up on the floating trade from their sidewalk. The shrewd business man makes his name and business popular by keeping them before the people and by fair dealing with those he thus induces to visit him.—Burlington (O.) Telegram.

Advertising Momentum.

Everyone who knows about railroad travel will tell you that the most severe test an engine is to get the train started.

Same thing with advertising.

If you can induce only a few buyers to use your goods at first, as a result of advertising, there will be enough business to earn a profit resulting from the recommendation of one person to another.

Of course this one "person to another" recommendation is only possible when the goods are right—satisfactory.

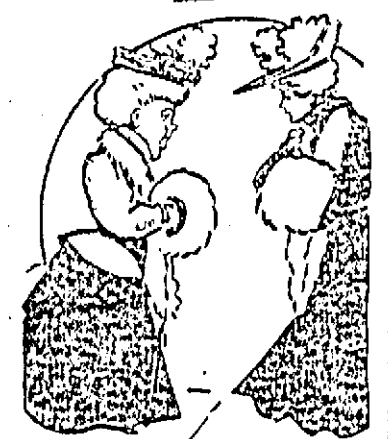

There is seldom profit in the first order.

It's the momentum which counts.—Commercial Union.

Did You Ever Notice

that one important difference between the man who succeeds in business and the man who fails lies in the fact that one man improves every opportunity of letting people know what he has to sell, while the other lets people find out for themselves—if they can?—Barker (N. Y.) Register.

SHREWD SCHEME TO GET MONEY

Aesop's Opinion of Quality--and Ours

One of Aesop's fables is as follows: When the census-taker of the animal world asked Mrs. Lion, "And how many cubs have you, Mrs. Lion?" She growled out "I have but one, but—that one is a lion!"

"Which goes to show," observed Mr. Aesop, "that while quantity is a good thing, quality is what counts."

Aesop and we agree on that point. That is why quality—quality first, last and all the time is the key note of the technical business training that will be given you at the

Southern Wisconsin Business College

Some people even tell us we're unnecessarily particular. That we give our students too much for our tuition rates—that we would enroll just as many students even though we were not so particular about every little detail of our courses and instruction.

W. W. DALE, President

But—we KNOW this much—OUR GRADUATES WOULD NOT BE MAKING AS MUCH MONEY OR GETTING AS MANY EXTRA GOOD POSITIONS IF OUR COURSES AND OUR INSTRUCTION WERE NOT SO PARTICULARLY CAREFUL AND SUPERIOR IN EACH LAST DETAIL.

Here you are given extra business practice both in the Business and Stenographic Departments. You are given the same kind of work that you would be given if you were working in a business office. You are expected to be as careful as if you were working in a business office. You are gradually taught to finally become as independent of your instructor as you will be independent of your employer when you get out into the business world.

The course is so arranged that the work is not arduous. Its mysteries are unfolded to you and its finer points developed in such a way that your interest is compelled and the courses become exceedingly fascinating.

We show you how to sweep aside the obstacles that present themselves in the path of every person who is ambitious to become an Expert Accountant or Expert Stenographer.

We do not care to produce ordinary Bookkeepers or Shorthand writers. Our ambition for you is that you shall become an Expert Bookkeeper, and Expert Stenographer. We want to keep up our reputation for producing only the kind of business assistants who receive much larger than the average salaries paid to ordinary stenographers and bookkeepers. For that reason we give you any and all kinds of dictation so that you will never be flustered by the most complex dictation that you may receive after you have gone out into the business world. You're trained to "think in short hand" and to have a thorough, unshakable grasp of its theory and a positive, unwavering ability to write rapidly and accurately the most complicated dictation.

In the Bookkeeping division you're given the most painstaking, most thorough practice in every phase of a bookkeeper's work. When you graduate from this college you will KNOW the science of accounts far better than any ordinary bookkeeper.

If you truly desire to prepare for a better—than-ordinary business career, your duty to yourself is to attend our College.

Send for a visit—let us talk to you five minutes—and we'll prove that to you. Or, if you haven't already received one of our College Journals send for one TODAY. We employ no solicitors but our President will gladly call on request.

Andrew Olson Reported Supposed Thief To Police But Found His Property This Morning.

Andrew Olson reported to the police last night that a valuable collection of eighty-seven rare coins which he kept wrapped in a leather bag in his tool chest had been stolen. It developed this morning, however, that his daughter, fearing that a tool chest was a poor safe, had removed them and found what she considered a better hiding place. Olson was much worried by his supposed loss as his collection is considered valuable. Included in the collection are: one gold dollar, one $2.50 gold piece, one La Fayette dollar, two Columbian half dollars, dated 1892-93, two trade dollars, five 3 cent pieces, two eagle pennies, four Mexican half dollars, the remaining coins comprised pennies, quarters and half dollars in German and Norwegian pieces.

COTTON MILLS IN BIG MERGER.

New England, New York and Baltimore Interests Are Joined.

New York, July 29.—New England, New York and Baltimore mill owners, bankers and capitalists incorporated the International Cotton Mills corporation, under the laws of New York, with an authorized capital of $10,000,000, seven per cent. cumulative preferred stock and $10,000,000 common stock. It is the largest consolidation of the kind ever attempted.

A statement issued by Myron C. Taylor, president of the new corporation, says textile mills, sales and distributing agencies, in the United States and Canada which manufacture and sell 3,000 varieties of cotton fabrics are included in the merger.

The properties consolidated represent 22 mills and 35 principal brands, owning 10,000 acres of land, part of which is under cotton cultivation, and employing 10,000 hands, with an aggregate annual output of approximately $18,000,000.

Rhode Island Senator Hits Back at Kansas "Insurgent" Leader.

Providence, R. I., July 29.—For the first time since he has been under bombardment by Bristow of Kansas and other insurgent senators, Nelson W. Aldrich hit back.

"That man Bristow is telling a pack of lies on me," he said. "He has told me many lies—he manufactured them so rapidly—that I wouldn't know where to begin should I take notice of him and enter denials."

"If the charges had been made upon the floor of the senate the case might be different," was suggested.

With a sardonic smile that ran into a chuckle the Rhode Island senator responded:

"Yes—yes, you notice they don't talk about me that way on the floor of the senate."

ONE MAN DEAD IN FEUD FIGHT.

Bad Blood Between Farmer and Tenant Ends in Latter's Death.

Logansport, Ind., July 29.—As a result of a long standing feud, Samuel A. Michaels, aged fifty years, of this city, shot and instantly killed Levi C. Pippinger, aged fifty years, a tenant on the Michaels' farm in Carroll county, just across the Ohio line.

Michaels and Pippinger got into argument about threshing grain and the former drew a revolver and fired twice point blank at Pippinger.

Michaels is in jail.

Perfectly Disgusting.

The most disgusting man in town the other day was the clerk in a ten-cent store on Euclid avenue. A woman customer had just been in asking for the shoe department. Shoes, mind you, in a ten-cent store.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Ticklemouse

—and his Sleepyland Adventures

By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

The Snapping Turtle

THREE tired fishermen, paddling slowly homeward through the evening shadows, rubbed their eyes and stared at the five adventurers in the Ticklemouse's canoe.

"Say!" yelled one of them, "you folks want to look out when you go under the rustic bridge across Old River—there's a snapping turtle there as big as a washtub. He'll sink you if you don't look sharp!"

"Thanks!" Davy called back, smiling to see how surprised the fishermen looked at the merry mice and the Teddy bear. But Dorfy looked a bit scared.

"Do you think he'll really sink our canoe, Mr. Ticklemouse?"

"Noneense, dearie—that's just talk. We'll be ready for Mr. Turtle. Besides, Old River isn't deep enough to drown us, there by the bridge. Before they dug the new channel through it might have been, but now it's only about up to your waist."

He shifted his position carefully in the frail canoe. "Just snuggle up forward a little more, chills, so I'll have more room astern, and I'll fix a nice cosy place for Mr. Turtle."

The snapping turtle must have had sharp eyes, for though they paddled very gently up to the bridge, he slid off the sandy bank into the water before they could beach the canoe.

Quick as he was, the Ticklemouse was quicker. He shot his paddle blade into the water like a scoop net, gave a mighty heave, and sent the great turtle sprawling into the air.

"Look out, chills! He's slipping!" Kersplash! went the big turtle into the water, and in a trice the mouse's paddle was under him again. This time he did not slip, and the struggling reptile landed with a thump!

crash in the stern of the canoe.

He glared at his captors like an angry snake. Like a snake he struck, his long, wrinkled neck flashing out at Teddy's furry leg.

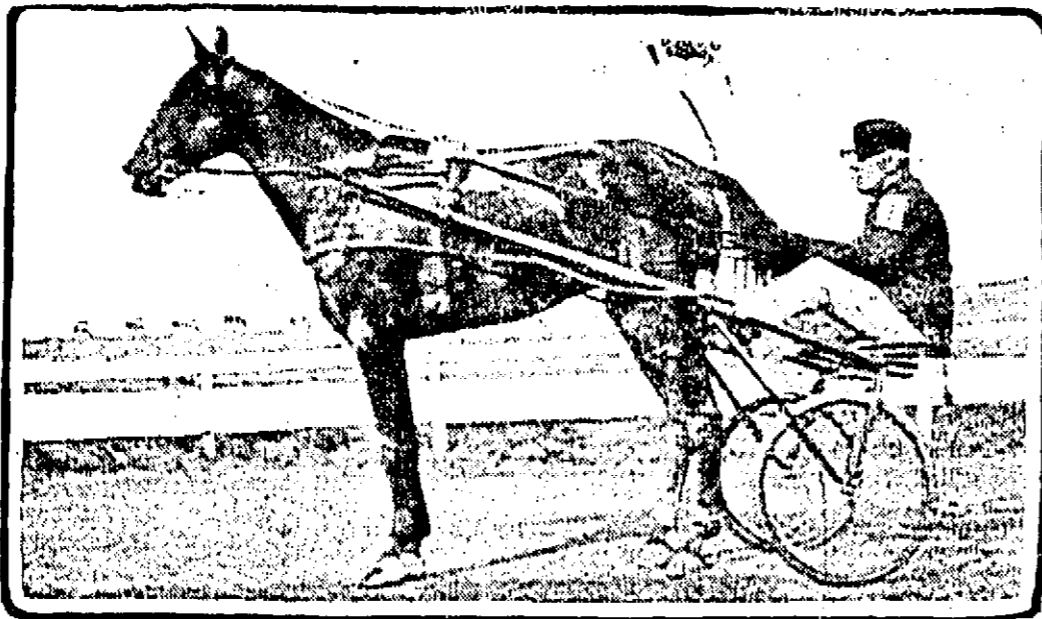

"Yow, wow!" howled Teddy. "He's got me by the leg! Take him off, quick!" He clawed and chewed at the silent turtle, which hung on like a bull dog. The mouse pried the grim jaws loose, only to find them clamped to his own tail a moment later.

It was the first time the twins had ever heard the Ticklemouse yell, but he made up for lost time. The wise old mouse's jaws flew open and let out a screech that made the echoes shiver.

Willy Wishingmouse was the only one who kept his head level. It was hard to stand up in the light canoe, and against all his uncle's strict rules. But he broke them all without a moment's delay, stood on one leg, shut one eye, and wished the turtle loose.

"Good boy, Willy!" The Ticklemouse, pale with pain, flopped the turtle into the water with his paddle and hastily tied his handkerchief around his injured tail.

"The next time you see your foolish old uncle setting out to catch snapping turtles, just lash him to a telegraph pole till you can signal the ambulance for the Old Mouse's

SEASON'S SENSATIONAL TROTTER

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Dudley Archdale, the slim black trotting streak purchased by Frank Jones, the Monmouth amateur champion some ten days ago, seems destined to be the season's sensation down the grand circuit.

Those who watched the little black mare take a mark of 2:08 3/4 in her first big race of the year at Grand Rapids declare that the Jones candidate has a future before her this season.

In the Furniture Manufacturers' purse here for $10,000 Dudley simply trotted away from the field, and at though opposed to some of the most promising youngsters of the season, never was forced to extend herself.

The victory here was the more remarkable because she was driven by Frank Jones, her owner and an amateur champion of Memphis. Mr. Jones now takes rank with Harry Devereaux and C. K. G. Billings, both of Cleveland, as the leading reinsmen of the age.

At the conclusion of the $10,000 stake race here, "Pop" George, who witnessed the race from the stand, declared that Dudley Archdale was good for three seconds faster time than her present mark of 2:08 3/4, which she took here. If this is true the black mare by Archdale and Dudley Egmont sure will be a sensation. She is entered in the M. and M. at Detroit and all the big early closing stakes to which she was eligible down the big line.

A Mistake.

"You don't want to make any mistake about Philadelphus's being a slow town," said Dabbledick. "No, sirree, I discounted a 30-day note over there once and, by Jingo, 30 days pass just as quickly over there as they do here!"—Lippincott's.

GOING FISHING

"But I don't see the point," protested the summer resortor.

The young man with his foot resting on the lower step and two fish-poles over his shoulder shook his head impatiently.

"Haven't I just explained," he said, "that when one goes to the country one must indulge in outdoor sports, and that fishing is included in the category? Given a perfectly good lake full of trusting little fish, why not fish? If one does not fish why not stay in town where one can order fish plunked and then complain to the waiter? Do try to be in keeping with your surroundings. Just at present you are, theoretically, surrounded by shiny bass begging to be caught."

"I'm not," declared the summer resortor, flatly. "I'm surrounded by a gale of wind direct from the north pole and I'm freezing to death and I want to go back to the log fire inside the cottage from which you called me! You may think this is June, but I'll tell you it isn't—it's the middle of winter!"

"Oh, come on," begged the man on the lower step. "Honest, fishing isn't half bad. Besides, it's no fun to go alone!"

"This is perfectly idiotic!" grumbled the summer resortor ten minutes later as he tramped along in sweater and old coat, her nose pink and her eyes weeping from the wind. "I'm frozen clear through and I loathe fishing anyhow, and, besides, any self-respecting fish would stay at home on a day like this! I'd have no regard, not the slightest, for a weak-minded fish that would go deliberately wandering around in the ice water looking for bait merely to be accommodated when it could just as well as not stay in the nice warm mud at the bottom of the lake! I shouldn't care to eat a fish like that, really! Don't you think it is going to snow?"

"It's really too cold to snow," admitted the young man. "If it could storm tonight I'd be willing to prophesy snow, but not just plain ordinary snow. All the horses at our place are blooming out in winter coats of heavy fur. Still, the fish don't mind that, because you can cut holes in the ice in winter and get them, you know."

"H-r-r!" shivered the summer resortor as they rounded the outskirts of the woods and came out on the lake front. "I'm glad to discover what you call pleasure! Of course, if you had invited me to go on a merry little jaunt through a cold-storage plant or something like that I would have known what to expect. Fishing has always been represented to me as an agreeable way of killing time. I don't see anything agreeable about this. I wish I had brought my fur!"

"We aren't fishing yet!" said the young man, patiently. "We are merely on the way. The rest of the sport will—"

"Ow-w-w!" moaned the summer resortor. "How was I to know that horrid hook was swinging loose? If you tear my best puffs getting it out I'll never forgive you as long as I live!"

"Then you'll have to unpin them and let them dangle on the hook," said the young man, shortly. "They may attract the fish!"

"Yank it out!" commanded the summer resortor, fiercely. "I hate fish-hooks! I heard of a girl once who got a fishhook caught in her ear when she was a child and they couldn't get it out and she had to go through life that way."

"Too bad she couldn't unpin her ear as you can your puffs," said the young man, unsympathetically. "Now, you sit on the box and I'll bait your hook."

"Ugh," said the summer resortor. "There must be something wrong with a human being who can handle angle worms and act as though he liked it! Doesn't it make creeps go down your spine?"

"No," said the young man, callously. "I'm just as wrong as they make 'em! Pardon me, but fish as a rule don't skink along the surface of the water—you'd better lower your line!"

"Truly," said the summer resortor through her chattering teeth, "are you having a good time?"

She stared questioningly at the young man who sat hunched up beside her wrapped in a disreputable heavy coat and with a pipe between his teeth.

"Yes, indeed," he declared, cheerfully. "Aren't you? This is great!"

"I'm not," said the summer resortor, uncompromisingly. "And the lake is getting rougher and rougher and pretty soon it will splash over this pier and wash our stiffened corpses away—oh, what's the matter?"

"Get a hold!" said the young man, running the words together. "What a nice bass! Put it into the basket!"

He rebaited his hook and then as the summer resortor didn't come back to her seat, he looked around.

"What in creation are you doing?" he roared.

"Sending this poor little fish back home," she said, coolly, as she dropped it into the lake. "It looked so little and sort of lonesome. Can't you catch them bigger than that?"

The young man looked at her and set his jaw. Then he arose resolutely. "Come on," he said, "and we'll go back to the log fire. I don't believe I care much about fishing today."

The Dainty Tub Frock To Be Worn Downtown, Mornings.

Washable dresses are an absolute necessity on some of the busy American summer days—especially in town where the humidity seems doubly severe. This crisp gingham frock, made of blue and white silk novelty gingham is on the shopworn style, with gay little ruffles on pinner overskirts, bodice and cuffs. The skirt for all the ruffled effect, holds to the straight lines of the season, the lower edge being narrowed in with a deep band of the gingham. With this tub frock is worn a very smart Gingo hat of blue straw faced with blue velvet and trimmed all over the top with puffs of gray-blue net, caught here and there with invisible stitches.

MODERN STREET FROCK.

For this model, however, either in natural tone or color, is ideal. The plaited part of skirt is joined to a hip yoke under a deep tuck, headed with taping. The yoke of bodice, formed of bands of lace insertion and tucks, joins the bodice part of bodice in same manner. A half dozen little bows of velvet ribbon and a velvet girdle are a chic finish to an exceptionally pretty and serviceable frock.

Sleepless Creatures. There are several species of fish, reptiles and insects that never sleep during the whole of their existence. Among fish it is positively known that pike, salmon and gold fish at no time sleep; also that there are other members of the fish family that sleep only a few minutes during the course of a month. There are various species of flies that never induce in slumber, and five species of serpents also that do not sleep.

Height Not Owing to Art. There is a story told that when Charles I. met Henrietta Maria at Dover he was rather surprised at her height, and cast his eyes down at her feet, no doubt supposing that she wore the absurdly high heels then in vogue. Henrietta Maria guessed his thoughts and showed him her feet, saying: "Sir, I stand upon mine own feet, and have no help of art. Thus high I am, and I am no higher nor lower."

Mind and Soul. The body is the tent where our existence is encamped. The more I think of it, the more I see that the mind is something outside of the soul, as the hands are outside of the body, the eyes outside of the head, the branches outside of the trunk. It helps to do more, but not to be more. The mind is a fire of which thought is the flame. The imagination is the eye of the soul.—Joseph Joubert.

Benefactor of Humanity. Blessed is the man who, having nothing to say, abstains from giving us wordy evidence of the fact.

Industry Supports All. In every rank, both great and small, it is industry that supports us all.—Gay.

CHICAGO NATIONALS' INFIELD Steinfeldt, third base; Evers, second base, and Chance, first base.

Chicago—Back to its world's championship form, the Chicago Cubs are in the van in the National league, and to nothing more than its infield can this be attributed. By many Steinfeldt, Baker, Evers and Chance are considered the most brilliant infield in the country, not merely because of their ability to field and throw, but because of the brains which direct these plays.

Chicago won a pennant and later a world's championship on a more technicality. It was Evers' nimble brain which detected that Mordecai had not touched second, and thus was an unparalleled chapter writ in baseball annals. The Cubs' infield is geared to the highest pitch of inside ball. With the reliable Killebrew or the brilliant Archer catching and acting as the pivotal point there is no more perfect defense in the baseball world than the Cubs' infield.

When Philosophy Falls. "Urging unhappy people to think of their merits," says the philosopher of folly, "is like trying to persuade a kitten who is unable to get out of a bathtub that she is happy because the water isn't turned on."

Proverb for Every Man. "There's a proverb that fits every man." "What one fits me?" "To whom God gives order, he also gives brains." "But I have no office." "Well, don't you see how it fits?"—Cleveland Leader.

WASTE OF DIGESTIVE ENERGY.

The average person wastes a vast amount of energy in digesting superfluous and improper food. No business man could conduct a store or a factory with any hope of success on the economic principles on which he conducts his digestive department. Many a man succeeds passably as a merchant in spite of bad buying or carelessness in the selection of employees, and thousands of otherwise intelligent people maintain a sufficient degree of energy and of optimism—the opposite of biliousness—to keep out of the sanitarium or the hospital. It requires four times as much vitality to digest an ounce of boiled cabbage as an ounce of uncooked cabbage. From the former there is no gain in bodily or mental vigor; from the latter there may be much. Should not good principles of economy be applied in this most important business—without, of course, losing spontaneity, which is a condition of good living.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

A MAN who signs himself "A Bachelor" has just written to ask me to settle a wager which a friend has made with him, to the effect that I am a man.

Just think of it. My little letters have received the highest compliment possible from a man—he actually thinks they show sufficient intelligence to have been written by one of his own sex.

As "A Bachelor" puts it—"my friend insists that the writings which appear above your signature, on account of their wisdom must emanate from a masculine mind."

I suppose I ought to be very grateful, but I'm not. On the contrary I think that is just the kind of compliment that a woman should resent—the kind that flatters her personally at the expense of her sex.

I heard a man and woman arguing the subject of woman's suffrage the other day.

The man said, "I haven't a doubt YOU could vote just as intelligently as any man. But you are an exception. There are not many women with your brains and common sense."

And the woman said, "I suppose you think that I will be pleased by that flattery, but I am not. You can't buy me off with a bit of flattery to let you disparage my sex."

I wanted to say, "Hurray!" I think that is exactly the attitude that every woman ought to take. Never allow a man to disparage your sex.

sex unchallenged, no matter how much personal flattery he may use to sugar coat his disparagement with.

It isn't loyal.

Our great reason why men have kept the position of masters, economically and socially, which they have so long held, is that they have always stood by each other.

Do you know one reason why women have begun to realize what a terrible menace immorality is to their home life and to demand a single standard of morality for both sexes? It is because there are now so many women physicians who are explaining these things to their sex.

In by-gone days when all physicians were men, they stood by their sex and covered up and glossed over the sin of their brothers, even where it was wrecking homes. When a woman was made an invalid simply because her husband had "sowed his wild oats," she was lost in entire ignorance of the cause of her suffering, and perhaps her own daughter was exposed to the same danger. These things are beginning to be different now and I think there will be an even greater change in the next few generations.

Of course that is a case where loyalty was unjustifiable, but it shows what loyalty can do.

No woman should be contented even if she herself is mentally and socially and economically her old master's equal, unless she believes that her whole sex is on the high road to becoming the same.

And no woman should be pleased when a man, no matter how highly he professes to reverence her, adopts a slighting attitude towards her sex.

And now Mr. "A Bachelor," after that little talk, have you any further doubt to which sex I belong?

FOR THE WEE MAN.

For little men of the size shown in our cut, white linen or plique is the best material for suits, as they always come from the tub looking like new. Above model is charming—the

HAPPY DAYS.

When the umpire with a smile Says: "Play Ball," Life seems sorter worth the while After all.

Mind the umpire.

PRETTY PROCK FOR SMALL CHILD.

This design works out equally well in linen, plique, etc., or serge or mohair. If linen is chosen, delft blue, with white buttonholes and buttons, is a pretty and girlish combination.

BLACK MESSALINE.

There seems to be no decline in the vogue for black, and many of the handsomest summer toilettes are black, either silk or crepe fabrics. Above model is messaline, made with overskirt front and side tunic. The bodice which is attached to skirt is made in surplus fashion, with wide revers of black satin, beautifully braided, with fancy soutache. There is a revealing tunic of white in a chemise and stock of the lace.

PINK SILK MUSLIN.

There is nothing dandier or more appropriate for a midsummer frock than silk muslin, and our sketch today illustrates a charming design for such material. In this instance the color is pink and an overskirt effect is given by a puffed band of the material put on the shoulders. Narrower bands similarly fashioned are used for decoration on bodice in connection with Irish lace—the latter forming collar and cuffs.

What can you say for, or against, the opinion that a truly converted man could not act in this harsh manner?

Can you cite any case of a professed Christian, acting in this harsh way, and how can you account for such action?

Should a Christian debtor ever sue at the law a debtor, when he knows he has nothing to pay with, and on getting judgment should he terrorize the debtor on every opportunity? Give your reasons.

Verses 31-34—Suppose at this stage the hard-hearted servant had become tender, and repented, would the king have forgiven him again?

What gave this king a right to revive a debt that had been forgiven? Does it represent the law of Divine forgiveness?

Verses 35—Why is it not possible, under any circumstances, for one to enjoy the favor of God while he cherishes a grudge against his brother? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

WON'T BUMP THE BABY

Folding Go-Cart Rides Easily Because of Spring Device.

A new type of go-cart warranted not to bump the baby over the roughest pavement has been invented by an Idaho man. All go-carts are equipped with springs to a greater or less extent, but this one is better provided in this respect than most. In the first place, the wheels have rubber tires, which in itself adds to the comfort of the vehicle. In the second place, springs support both the front end of the body of the cart and the handle rests on a spring bar, thus reducing the amount of jar on the occupant of the carriage to a minimum. The body of the vehicle rests partly on the springs under the front and partly on a supporting bar which is pivoted to the handle, so that all concussion on the wheels is reduced to a bounce by the time it reaches the body portion, and it is well-known that no properly trained baby objects to bouncing. The body portion is collapsible and the rods all jointed so the go-cart can be folded into a small compact when not in use.

At the Turn of a Faucet

WHEN a man considers buying a water-heater two courses confront him—to buy a little water-heater commonly sold for ten or fifteen dollars, small enough to carry home under his arm—or to pay more for the more luxurious

RUUD

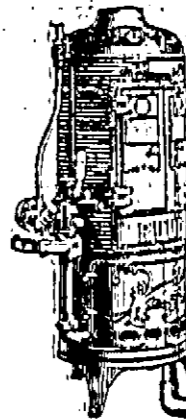

Automatic Gas Water-Heater

The short-breathed service of the little heater you're already acquainted with. It sets the seal of incapacity and limitation on all your hot water faucets.

Now learn about the unlimited scope of the Ruud. The difference is one of hot water service, not of dollars. The Ruud furnishes unlimited steaming hot water at the turn of the faucet any moment of morning or midnight. Washdays, bathnights, and kitchen-needs are all the same to the Ruud. Yet it's entirely automatic—runs itself—you don't go near it—controlled from the hot water faucets.

Come in and learn why the cheap little heater is wasteful compared to the larger, luxury of the Ruud.

Chicago Youth Tried to Get Away With Money From Woman Who Had Defended Him.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., July 28.—Thomas Hogan, a nineteen-year-old youth, who came here from Chicago a week ago, has been taken to jail on a charge of theft. He went to the Travis home on North Jackson street and begged for food upon arrival in town. He subsequently became a boarder there and went to work for the Gas company. While Mrs. Travis and the other members of the family were away from home, Hogan skipped out with two bags, containing savings in small sums, one having in it about $15 in dimes and the other $6. Mrs. Travis upon returning home noticed the bags were gone and notified Officer Mackey, who traced him to a box car on the Milwaukee road tracks at about 1 o'clock in the morning and marched him to jail. Hogan had smashed the bars and put the coin in his pocket.

The Girl and the Bill

By Bannister Merwin
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—At the expense of a girl in a black touring car who has called a traffic jam on State street. He buys a new hat and is given in change a five dollar bill with "Remember person you pay this to" written on it. A second time he helps the girl in the black car and learns that in from and Deane Wallingham they have mutual friends, but gets no further hint of her identity. In his room at the "Pere Marquette" he telephones Deane Wallingham and agrees to go to Arkville on the morning train. He discovers another intention on the marked bill, which, in a little attempt to decipher it, he copies and places the copy in a drawer.

CHAPTER II.—Senator Porcillo, South American, calls, and claims the marked bill. Orme refuses to give it up. Porcillo attacks Orme, is over come and calls in Senator Abner, minister from his country, to vouch for him. Abner tries diplomacy to get the bill. Orme is suspicious and dismisses them with a promise to keep the bill until ten tomorrow morning. The office clerk tells Orme that a Japanese has called for him, but goes away without leaving name or message.

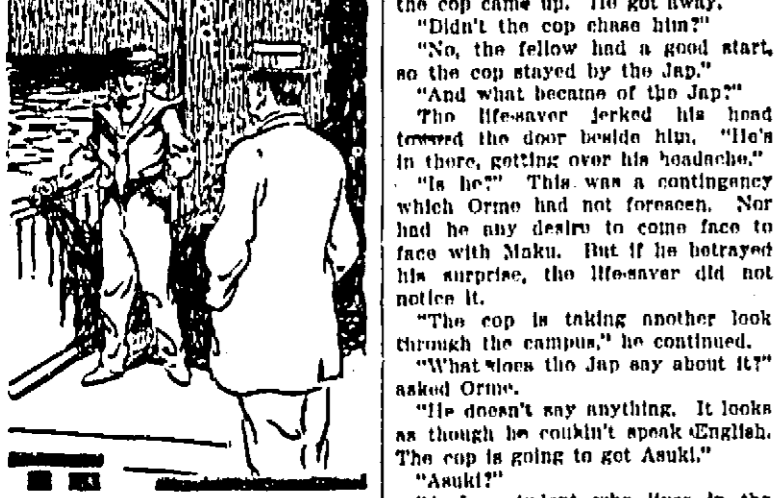

CHAPTER III.—Orme goes for an evening walk in Lincoln park. He rescues Abner from two Japanese assassins. Abner again tries diplomacy, but fails to get the marked bill. On his return to the Pere Marquette Orme is dragged by two Japanese into the tunnel. He escapes by the back door, but is forced to exchange the marked bill for a five dollar bill. He escapes by the back door, but is forced to exchange the marked bill for a five dollar bill. He escapes by the back door, but is forced to exchange the marked bill for a five dollar bill.

CHAPTER IV.—In the Pere Marquette reception room he finds the girl of the car waiting for him. She too, wears the bill. Orme tells his story. She recognizes the bill with the car as Maku, her father's butler. She recognizes the bill as the key to the missing place of important papers stolen from her father. Both Japanese and South American want the bill. She can not tell him who she is nor the secret of the papers, but in promise to help her, he calls her "Bill". Orme gets his copy of the bill. The girl declares that they start out in the black touring car in quest of the missing papers.

CHAPTER V.—In the university grounds in Evanston Orme locates the hiding place. Maku and another Jap are there. Orme tells Maku with a wrench, but the papers are in the darkness with the papers. Orme finds in Maku's pockets a folded slip of paper. At the girl's request he takes her and the car to the home of her friend in Evanston. She is still just "Bill".

These considerations led Orme to think that the car which he and the girl had heard in the distance could not have been occupied by the encircling Japanese.

The fellow, then, had probably made for the electric car line, and in that event he would be well on his way to Chicago by this time. The car he had caught must have gone southward from Evanston about 10:45. The conductor would be likely to remember having had a Japanese on board; perhaps he would even remember where the Oriental had got off. The natural course for Orme, therefore, was to take a car himself and, if he did not meet the other car returning, to get off at the car barn and make inquiries. The possibility that the Japanese had changed to the elevated road on the North side was great, but the conductor might remember if the change had been made.

But Orme did not turn at once toward the carline. Though his logic pointed in that direction, he was irresistibly influenced by a desire to walk eastward along the drive where it skirted the southern end of the campus. A half-hour might go by, and still he would not be too late to meet, on its return, the car which the Japanese "would" have taken. He started, therefore, eastward, toward the lake, throwing frequent glances through the iron fence at his left and into the dark shadows of the oaks.

He came to the lake without encountering anyone. The road here swept to the southward, and on the beach near the turn squatted the low brick building which the girl had told him was the life-saving station. A man was standing on the little veranda. His suit of duck was dimly white in the light from the nearby street-lamps.

"One of the crew," Orme surmised, and he muttered slowly down the little path.

The beach sloped gently to the edge of the lake, where a breakwater thrust its blunt nose out like a stranded hulk. The water was calm, lapping

"Ask him," the policeman said, "if he knows who hit him."

The undertones of a foreign jargon followed.

"Well, then," continued the policeman, "find out where he came from and what he was doing on the campus."

Again the undertones, and after an interval of silence. Then the policeman spoke in an undecided voice.

"If he don't know anything, I can't do anything. But we might as well get a few more facts. Something might turn up. Ask him whether he saw anybody following him when he went into the campus."

Orme had been straining his ears in a vain endeavor to catch the words of Asuki. But suddenly his attention was diverted by a sound from the lake. It was the "pup-pup-pup" of a motorboat, apparently a little distance to the northward. The explosions followed one another in rapid succession.

He turned to the life-saver.

"What boat is that?" he asked, "I don't know. Some party from Chicago, probably. She came up an hour or so ago—at least, I suppose she's the same one."

The explosions were now so rapid as to make almost one continuous roar.

"She's a fast one, all right," commented the life-saver. "Hear her go!"

"Are there many fast boats on the lake?"

"Quite a number. They run out from Chicago harbor now and then."

Orme was meditating.

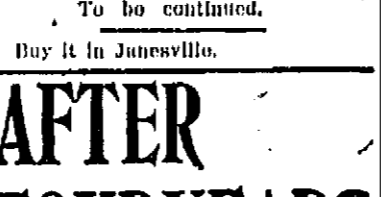

"Exactly how long ago did this boat pass?"

"Oh, an hour or more. Why?"

"She seems to have been beached up north here a little way."

"She may have been. Or they've been lying to out there."

In Orme's mind arose a surmise that in this motorboat Maku and his companion had come from Chicago.

"Perhaps I Steered Too Far South."

The surmise was so strong as to develop quickly into a certainty. And if the Japanese had come by this boat, it stood to reason that the one who had the papers was escaping in it. He must have waited some time for Maku and, at last, had pushed off to return alone.

Were those Japanese acting for themselves? That did not seem possible. Then who was their employer?

Orme did not puzzle long over these questions, for he had determined on a course of action. He spoke to the life-saver, who appeared to be listening to the droning conversation which continued within the station.

"The hold-up men may be in that boat," remarked Orme.

"Hardly." A laugh accompanied the answer.

500,000 Acres in Wisconsin Opened to Settlement!

Sturdy Settlers, With Ambition, Energy and a Few Hundred Dollars, Wanted in the Famous Round Lake Country, Wisconsin

American Immigration Co. of Chippewa Falls, Wis. Offers Unparalleled Opportunity!

Unable longer to disregard the urgent and increasing demands of homeseekers, the lumbermen have at last released for settlement 500,000 acres of rich farming land in the heart of Wisconsin's great dairying and big crop-producing section. It is a country of abundant rainfall and the purest of water. The immense tract thrown open is known as the Round Lake Wisconsin Farm Lands. Thanks to the American Immigration Co., which has secured this vast acreage, a man with a few hundred dollars and good red blood in his veins can secure a farm equal in productive power to land that commands $100 to $150 per acre in Iowa, Illinois, Indiana or Ohio, at a cost of $6.50 to $20 per acre, payable one-quarter to one-third cash and the balance in ten years. The very choicest of these lands—150,000 acres, located in Sawyer County, Wisconsin—is being sold at these surprisingly low figures.

Good News Travels Fast

This is an opportunity unparalleled in recent years, and the news has already traveled fast and far, creating widespread interest. It challenges the attention of the owner of high-priced land and the tenant farmer as well. The man who owns high-priced land can sell at top-notch figures and by reselling in the Round Lake Country secure a tremendously increased acreage. The tenant farmer can realize here his life's ambition to have a fine farm of his own and raise his family in independence, with none to dispute his right to the fruits of his own industry.

The Kind of Men Wanted

The great development plans inaugurated by the American Immigration Co. call for men who will take full advantage of the opportunities offered. There is work to do, but it is work that brings big reward in rapidly increasing land values and ready cash. It is not a "get rich quick" scheme, but a plan to clear away, but much of it is in merchantable hardwoods—birch, maple, hemlock and basswood—which can be turned into money at the nearby sawmills. The rest is readily salable as cordwood, at good prices. There is plenty of timber to pay for the land and provide lumber for farm buildings, fences and fuel.

Rich Soil Yields Abundantly

The Round Lake Wisconsin Farm Lands are not in one unbroken tract, but scattered pieces, and in between are fine developed farms producing grain, fruit and vegetables in astonishing abundance. The soil is a rich, sandy loam, with clay subsoil or a clayey loam soil, both particularly adapted for dairy farming, stock raising and the production of big crops of corn, clover, alfalfa, timothy, clover, tobacco, sugar beets, and all classes of vegetables.

Great Stock and Dairy Region

Wisconsin leads all other states in the output of dairy products. This Round Lake land is in the very heart of the state's richest dairy section. Stock raising is very profitable. Cattle, sheep, swine and horses thrive on the rich pastures of the Round Lake Region. Clover grows in such abundance that this district is known as "The Land of the Big Red Clover."

Clover and timothy yield $10 an acre in the meadow, and four cows will produce over $200 worth of butter and $150 worth of beef. This indicates the big profits in dairy farming.

Nowhere in the United States is there a better opportunity for a man to start in profitable dairy farming than is afforded by the Round Lake Wisconsin Farm Lands.

There is a situation impossible to duplicate in any state in the Union. A wooded paradise, rich in the same resources that tempted the pioneers to cross the continent and endure untold hardships—right in the front yard of the greatest dairymen in the United States! Call or write for free book "The Round Lake Country," which gives facts, figures, pictures, explains our development plans, tells of new towns and railroads, and gives proof. Don't delay—this is the chance you have been waiting for all these years. Let us hear from you at once.

Ten Years to Pay for a Round Lake Farm!

We will sell you a farm in the Round Lake Country on such favorable terms that a few hundred dollars cash will easily swing the deal. You can pay the balance in five or ten annual payments. Any industrious man can have his farm fully paid and money in the bank long before the five or ten-year period.

How to Get Round Lake Land

The first thing to do is to get up to the Round Lake Wisconsin Farm Lands with us and look them over. Personal investigation, right on the ground, will prove conclusively that this is the greatest cheap land opportunity of the age. It's a chance you cannot afford to overlook. Hundreds are headed for Sawyer County determined to get a fresh start in a new country, where all have an equal chance. Let us take you over the land and show you its rich possibilities. Compare it with the land in your own locality that sells for five times as much. Tell us how you feel about it. Call or write for free book "The Round Lake Country," which gives facts, figures, pictures, explains our development plans, tells of new towns and railroads, and gives proof. Don't delay—this is the chance you have been waiting for all these years. Let us hear from you at once.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, July 29, 1870.—Jottings.—The average temperature for the past thirty days is 88 degrees. During twelve of those days the mercury has shown itself among the nineties, and on three occasions has reached 100. This record is from the thermometer at Webb's corner, and there are doubtless places in the city where greater heat has prevailed. Old residents say it is the hottest summer ever experienced in this locality.

Bacon—"The discovery was made in Canada, a year or so ago, that the musk rat could be treated and dyed to imitate seal so nearly as to avoid detection." Expert—"I don't care how nice they are treated. I don't believe a muskrat could ever bark like a seal."

Bacteria.

Not long since it was announced that Reginald had discovered bacteria in coal. Continuing his researches, he found evidence that bacteria were probably coeval with the first appearance of organic life on the earth. They attacked vegetable tissues, as well as the bones and teeth of animals, but as a rule they belonged to species distinct from the bacteria of today.—Philadelphia Record.

Tan in the Tropics. Some whites in the tropics do not tan, but take on a peculiar whitish color, even when the blood is strong and healthy. This is strikingly true in damp, hot places, and one sees some of the whitest people of Barbados.

Tends to Humility.

The more a man thinks about himself—if he thinks clearly—the more humble he will become. Conceit is a sign of confused perceptions, and an inability to see the true proportions of things. "Know thyself" is really a gate to the first beatitude—"Blessed are the poor in spirit."
